KIWANIS CLUB AND FRIENDS GUESTS AT BUSH LUMBER CO. FOR BIG BARBECUE

Right Royally the Hosts Minister to Wants of the Inner Man

BIG PLANT INSPECTED BY MANY VISITORS

Barbecue One of the Most Enjoyable Affairs of the Club's History

The J. D. Bush Lumber Company and Kiwanis entertained at a barbecue yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock on the grounds of the lumber company, and right royally did the hosts minister to the inner man. Under the direction of Otto Moebes, a Brunswick stew was produced that had few equals and no superior, while Mr. Cline saw the meats were roasted to a taste.

A number of ladies assisted in the serving and a great time was had. Probably 200 prominent men had been summoned to appear at the given hour and they were there with good cheer and good appetites and entered with zest on disposing of the edibles placed before them by their hosts. J. H. McMath had furnished Chero-Cola in quantity and guests did not neglect to give the delicious drink full attention.

Mr. Bush made an ideal host and threw his lumber plant open to the inspection of his visitors, which by the way is modern in every respect and called forth most favorable expression from his visitors.

When Jason calls again he may rest assured a big crowd will answer to it, for he is ideal as a host. Kiwanis, as usual, did the hospitable thing.

Among the other interesting exhibits at the lumber company were a loaded truck and wagon, the former carrying 30,000 shingles, the latter 20,000 shingles, 50,000 in all, with his force of men perched on top of the load and the big boss in command.

Clock Punching Costly to Roads

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 3.—"Punching the clock" under the national agreement cost the railroads of the United States nearly $6,500,000 dollars during the first six months of 1920, E. P. Barker of Philadelphia, told the senate interstate commerce committee at today's session of the transportation inquiry. The railroad were required under the agreement placed in effect during government control to allow employees one hour extra pay each week for time consumed in recording the fact that they were on the job.

LONDON, June 3.—An invitation to America to join the League of Nations was extended today by Lord Cecil in a speech to the League as Union.

Local Boy Sells Sweet Peas to Aid Many Hungry Men and Women

How George Boggs, of Albany, who is visiting relatives in Birmingham sold sweet peas to aid the hungry men, women and kiddies in the Birmingham district, is told by the Birmingham News. The story follows:

Sweet peas for the down and out. That was the idea of George Boggs, 10 years of age, of Albany, Ala., who is visiting his uncle, R. C. Cadden at 817 Jena Avenue.

Nobody knows how George discovered, first, that there were folks, men, women, little children without work, without food, almost within a stone's throw of his home. He had not talked with his uncle and his aunt and his cousins. Seemingly, he was simply having a whopping old time of it on his visit. Nobody yet understands how the idea was born in George's mind—but—

Lewis Bowen, secretary of the Federation of Labor with headquarters in the Parley Building, heard a distinct knock on the door Tuesday morning. There entered a small sized chap with two silver dollars. He said they were from R. C. Cadden—a gift from R. C. Cadden for the destitute people.

Further talk with George Boggs revealed that he discovered heaps of sweet peas in his uncle's garden. For with be brought them to town and sold them dirt cheap to get a bit of money for the miners' children. He thought it only fair that since they were his uncle's sweetpeas and not his own, acknowledgement should be made in the name of R. C. Cadden.

Through such gifts as this, through unselfishness, one finds that adversity has some precious uses.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR J. D. McNABB

The solemn Episcopal burial service, was said yesterday afternoon by Rev. T. G. Mundy Rector of St. John's church, over the mortal remains of the late James D. McNabb, who died at his apartments in a local hotel, Tuesday morning. The minister's impressive declaration as the funeral procession entered the church were the words of Christ: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on Me, though he be dead, yet shall he live." And the final words of the reading were: "The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

The solemn march was played by Mrs. E. E. Graves, who also played the accompaniments for the hymns sung, and for the solo "Nearer My God to Thee," by Miss Mary Penick. The choir led by Mrs. Roy Horton, was assisted by a number of singers from neighboring churches. The service was deeply impressive, both at the church and at the cemetery, where the interment took place at half past five o'clock. At 4 o'clock, the hour announced for the funeral services the church yard and streets leading to it were filled with members of the Knights Templar in full uniform members of the local Blue Lodge of Masons, and with members of the local Machinists' union, many of whose number received their craft training under Mr. McNabb, when he was foreman in the Albany Louisville and Nashville shops. The members of the last named organization wore emblems draped in crepe in token of their sorrow.

At the close of the service conducted by Dr. Mundy the Knights Templar led the way out, as they had led the procession into the church. Waiting vehicles conveyed the sorrowing to the city cemetery where the final services were conducted by Dr. Mundy, of whose church Mr. McNabb was a devoted member. A. Q. McDonald, W. M. conducted the Masonic burial service at the grave. The sorrow felt by the whole community, was tempered in a measure by the knowledge for some years, that Mr. McNabb's days were numbered following a paralytic stroke he sustained while presiding at a meeting of one of the numerous brotherhoods to which he belonged. The pall bearers were:

Active—C. V. Dupont, Isaac Scheer, John Berry, W. A. Ellner, Walter Williams and D. C. Vohlers. Honorary—E. D. Berry, Roy Newsom, Fred Perkins, J. J. McClellan, F. H. Pointer, and J. A. Yarborough.

SNAKE COILED ON AUTO, DIES IN AN ATTACK

W. F. Boswell, manager of the Decatur Box and Basket factory drove his automobile up to the door of the plant's office yesterday.

As he arrived an employe called out to him to stop and get out of his car immediately.

Mr. Boswell complied and espied a large black snake coiled on the auto's front spring. The reptile's head reared itself eight inches in front of the machine.

A united attack disposed of the snake, which proved to be 4 feet and 6 inches in length. How it got on the machine is a mystery.

WAR TORN TULSA'S RELIEF WORK STARTS AS RIOT SUBSIDES

Business Men to Raise $500,000 to Rebuild Burned and Wrecked Homes

(International News Service)

TULSA, June 3.—Relief work in Tulsa centered in organized channels today and the city is proceeding with the great task of reconstruction with all speed. There is no tendency to shift the blame for the day of blood and fire in which race rioting cost thirty lives and property damage of more than a million and a half dollars.

The known dead are now ten white persons and 20 negroes. A number of injured in hospitals are not expected to recover. A total of more than 300 white persons and negroes were wounded, reports from hospitals show.

Leading business men began a campaign today to raise a fund of $500,000 to rebuild destroyed homes. With the situation now believed well under control, the authorities were prepared today to press an investigation of the rioting and bring the guilty to bar. On an order from Governor Robertson, District Judge Valjean Bidson issued a call for a grand jury to meet June 8 to investigate the riots.

While the reign of martial law was modified today, nearly 400 are still on duty here. Twenty-five negroes, among whom are believed to be some of the ring leaders of the black mob that invaded the business district Tuesday night before the rioting broke out, are held in jail under special guard while an investigation of their conduct is in progress.

GOVERNOR KILBY TOLD WAGE NOT CUT WITHOUT CONSENT

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 3.—Governor Kilby was told by a committee representing the coal operators of the Birmingham district that they had not violated the terms of his award in the coal strike of several months ago and that no wages of coal miners had been reduced except with the agreement of the employers and employees and that in a great majority of cases the coal miners requested that the reductions be made in order that they might have employment a greater number of days each week.

Following the conference Governor Kilby announced that the showing made by the operators would indicate that there has been no violation either of the letter or spirit of the award and pointed out section 5 of the findings included in his award which follows: "The freedom of contract shall be inviolate and therefore any of the above mentioned things may be done by mutual agreement of the parties."

Cullen Employed

Announcement was made by the state child welfare department today that H. D. Cullen of Birmingham had been employed as assistant director of the department during the summer months. Mr. Cullen was secretary of the state four minute men's organization during the war and has been connected with various social organizations since that time.

Woman Honored

Mrs. Bernice Summers Osgoode, assistant attorney-general of Alabama, received the honor Thursday of being the first woman ever to make an oral argument before an appellate court in Alabama when she appeared in behalf of the state in the case of the state ex rel William Chandler versus H. F. Lee, state auditor, involving the right of the prison inspection department to require sheriffs to file prison sheets showing the quantity and cost of food given to prisoners during a month before collecting their feed bills.

Mrs. Osgoode made the first argument for the state, being followed by Hugh White, assistant attorney-general. Sheriff Chandler was represented by Mr. Motley of Gadsden. This case involves a petition for a writ of mandamus and was filed in the circuit court of Montgomery county early in the week. Sheriff Chandler appealed to the court of appeals when the lower court held that the prison inspection department may require the filing of the ration sheet and that the auditor may withhold his warrant for the feed bill until the sheet is submitted.

Losers Appeal

George C. Harris, Birmingham transfer man, lost his fight in the supreme court Thursday for an injunction prohibiting the city commission of Birmingham from arresting him for violating a city ordinance which requires all transfer companies to make daily reports of goods moved. Harris alleged that the city ordinance is invalid but that members of the city commission, especially John H. Taylor, head of the department of public safety, had openly threatened to arrest him every time he refused to comply with the ordinance.

Harris alleged that the ordinance was enacted at the instance of furniture dealers and that his business had been seriously interfered with by his continued arrest during a test case which is still pending. He sought an injunction preventing further arrests during the pendency of the test case, but the lower court declined to grant it on the ground that his case contained no equity. The supreme court held that the ruling of the lower court was proper.

In another case from Jefferson county the court affirmed the life sentence imposed on M. L. Jackson for assaulting a girl under twelve years old. Jackson perfected an appeal but did not submit a bill of exceptions and the court announced that no error could be found in the record.

Koppers Company, a Jefferson county company, must pay T. J. Jerigan six thousand dollars for personal injuries received by him while employed by the company under a decision in another case. Jerigan sued for fifty thousand dollars, but the jury rendered a verdict for six thousand dollars. The supreme court refused to direct the court of appeals to reverse its decision which gave the American Trust and Savings Bank a new trial in the case brought by John H. Montano. Montano sued for four hundred dollars, contending that he deposited this amount with the bank and that its return had been refused. The bank contended that no such amount was deposited. The trial court refused to permit the bank to offer its system of bookkeeping in evidence and on this ground the court of appeals ordered a new trial after Montano obtained a judgment. The Supreme court in refusing to direct the court of appeals to change its decision said it was proper for the bank to offer its system of bookkeeping in order to show that there was little chance for an error to occur. Since the judgment was obtained Montano has died and the case is being continued by Annie Montano, administratrix.

BIG NAVY BLOCKED BY HOUSE FIGHT

Democrat leaders tried to force a vote on the Borah disarmament provision in the bill. The republicans resisted, claiming that the conferees should be permitted to enter on their work without instructions. The threatened sharp debate over the senate changes in the bill including the heavily increased appropriations are shut off by the withdrawal by Representative Kelley, of Michigan, who is in charge of the bill, of his request for unanimous consent to send the bill to conference.

TWINS LOSE SWAT FEST TO SHEFFIELD BUT PROTEST THE GAME ON DECISION

Umpire Declines to Permit Tying Run to Score on Error

ETHERIDGE HIT HARD; McCLAIN HURLS WELL

Center Fielder Takes Turn in Box When Pitcher is Hammered

The Twins lost a swat-fest to the Triplets on the latter's diamond yesterday, but Manager McDuff protested the game on the grounds that the tying run, which was on third, should have been allowed to score in the ninth on a wild throw.

Etheridge started on the mound for the Twins, but was hit hard and McClain, outfielder, went into the box in the latter stages of the game and pitched well.

The Tri-Cities piled up a lead of six runs on the Albany-Decatur squad, but the latter never gave up the fight and in the ninth scored three times and came within one run of tying the count. The run which spelled victory for the Sheffield team was held at third base, as stated above, making the basis of the protest.

The fielding feature of the game was contributed by McDuff, who made a beautiful one-handed stop of a hard hit liner through second.

The score:
R. H. E.
Sheffield 400 430 00—11 16 7
A-D *102 004 102—10 13 4
Batteries—Sheffield, Smith and Nathan; Albany-Decatur, Etheridge, McClain and Johnson, Umpire, Clark. Time 2:00.

At that time Eaks had been at bat 24 times and had hit safely 11 times. This week he has continued his terrific pace and it is likely that he is leading the league.

"Shorty" Lewis, local outer gardner, is hitting 371 and is runner up among the regulars, Mosely leading the twirlers with an average of 454.

IT IS AN ILL WIND THAT BLOWS NOBODY ANY GOOD

George Harvey's disreputable Pilgrim's day speech, in which the former editor of Harper's Weekly ruthlessly defouled the good name of his country and every soldier and sailor who fought in the world war has evidently had one good effect. President Harding's two notable utterances of late are essentially flat denials of every thing Harvey said in London, each impressing the duty America owes to the whole world.

It is because Harvey said in effect that America recognized no obligation save selfish ones, recognized no country save America, and fought "taggardly" in the great war, with no thought of saving civilization, but only for self salvation, that the President of the United States felt called upon to save the good name of his country by declaring that we do recognize our altruistic obligations and that we did fight for civilization. Copies of Mr. Harding's memorial day address, shows him to be an earnest and able speaker.

Also he lacks the superb diction of President Wilson and the mental directness of the former college professor. Mr. Harding gave utterance to the same kind of patriotic sentiment, as characterize the public utterances of Mr. Wilson. In speaking of the place of America among the nations, as follows, the President takes just the opposite view of such cheap men as Ambassador Harvey:

We look about us on a world troubled and torn, groping for a way back to light and opportunity. We find ourselves, as a people, occupying a place of vast responsibility in that world. We stand among the leaders to whom it looks for guidance and direction. We are blessed with wealth, and with the institutions of freedom, with the magnificent tradition that comes to us from those whom today we honor. We cannot evade, if we would, for mankind is fallen on times when there is no hope for it if some communities seek isolation while others indulge unrestrained ambition for empire. Civilization must face disaster if there shall be denial, either of common responsibility, or of essential equality among sovereign states and persons.

These words of the President reveal him as he really is. He cannot be thought of, as belonging to a type and class of little men, such as Mr. Harvey has proven himself to be. The American people have never elevated a mean or unpatriotic man to the presidency. Mr. Harding's mind seems to be in the same frame it was when, as a Senator he once favored America's entrance in to the League of Nations, with certain reservations as to Article X of that covenant.

When Mr. Wilson spoke of how the world would fare, if America stood afar off and refused to help solve the post war problems he was much more brief and direct than President Harding. Wilson said that "the world would be heartbroken" if this nation deserted it, in the hour of need. But is Mr. Harding any less passionate as to the results, if America remains isolated, although he uses more words when he says in his memorial address:

In the inspirations that we may gain through today's contemplation of the deeds of these, our heroes of all our wars, we are called to look toward tomorrow's obligations. Our country has never failed to measure up to the demands presented to it in behalf of humanity, and it never will. When it ceases to meet these drafts, it will no longer be our country; it will be, if that time ever comes, the wretched and decaying memorial of another civilization which has crumbled, of another ideal which has failed, of another ambition for men's happiness which somehow has gone awry. We feel, ay, in our hearts we know that ours is not to be that fate. We believe that the torch will flame more brightly in our hands, that we will hold it safe and high aloft, and that its light will help, at least, to point the way for humanity on the path of safety and in the task of building for all time.

Mr. Wilson, doubtless read with satisfaction, and subscribed heartily to most of the sentiment of President Harding's memorial day address, especially his words describing the result if we disregard our international duties:

"The wretched and decaying memorial of another civilization which has crumbled, of another ideal which has failed, of another ambition for men's happiness which somehow has gone awry."

The high ideals of Woodrow Wilson are contained in this expression of Mr. Harding. Such aspirations will not make pleasant reading for the "little Americans" and bitter enders of the Hiram Johnson, and Henry Cabot Lodge stripe. In so far as Harvey has evidently called out a noble expression from our President, he has unwittingly, done a public service. With the right encouragement, Mr. Harding may yet break entirely away from the domination and leadership of the undesirables in his party, and either enter the League of Nations out right, or else in some other way get in close touch with the great nations of the world.

IT'S THE SPIRIT THAT WINS

Looking backward over the paths we have trod there are few, indeed, who cannot remember times when we might have averted misunderstandings with friends had we been disposed to be generous, rather than ungenerous; times when much might have been accomplished in a bigger, community way had some individual or group of individuals been willing to give, rather than take.

Individuals who always receive and never give have little consolation in the end, communities which lack the give and take of team work never amount to a great deal. Helping the other fellow always has been and always will be the spirit that wins.

A striking lesson in team work was given Wednesday afternoon at the local baseball park. Shortstop Craddock, of the local team, had been playing in hard luck for several days. He was in the midst of what in diamond language is known as a "slump." His fielding had been decidedly ragged.

Before the game started Wednesday he told his teammates, with a grin of determination on his face, that the score sheet would show no errors for him. For several innings he accepted a number of chances without erring. Then in the fourth inning a ball was hit to him and the runner went safe. According to strict interpretation of scoring rules, it was a hit, not an error.

There seemed a chance that Sells, pitching for the local team, might finish the game without another hit being obtained off his delivery.

As Craddock came in after the inning, the scorer informed him he was withholding final judgment on the play, until the game ended or until the visiting team obtained a hit.

"If the visitors do not get another hit, your chance will be scored as an error for you and Sells given credit for a no-hit game," Craddock was told.

Realizing that another error would only give an additional black eye to his already battered fielding record, did Craddock whine? No.

"Sure, give me an error. I wouldn't spoil a man's no hit game for anything."

There's self effacement, there's give and take, there's team work, there's the spirit that wins, in baseball or anywhere else.

WATER OVER THE DAM

Senator Lodge would reimburse the states for such funds as they spent in equipping their National Guard units for service on the Mexican border in 1916 and at the beginning of the war in 1917. The Lodge idea is to take from the national pocketbook the money for this and hand it back to the different states.

Why not forget these expenditures? The voters and taxpayers of the various states have forgotten them. The money has been raised and spent. The Lodge plan would result merely in again raising the money and again burdening the taxpayer. The money that was expended for these purposes in 1916 and 1917 is water that has gone over the dam.

If Senator Lodge has his way, the refunds will go back to the state treasuries. This money will be regarded, and most naturally, as so much "velvet." State officials and lawmakers will look upon these funds very much as the average man regards the money that comes to him from a forgotten and outlawed debt; as "a windfall" and "easy money." State officials will be moved to spend it as humanity usually spends "easy money."

With the whole nation anxiously expecting a genuine reduction in expenditures and appropriations, why go out of the way to find new ways to raid the treasury and maintain the present rate of Federal money-spending? Congress should quit its persistent circling of the "pork barrel."

There is no popular outcry that the states be reimbursed for the money that was spent for a general and national purpose four and five years ago. People and states were glad and anxious to help at that time. But there is a general outcry at the present time against tax burdens.

The public would like to see Congress and the administration make good on the assertions of economy. The public resents the searching out of ways that lead to still more and more expense. —Philadelphia Public-Ledger.

PSALM OF SUMMER LIFE.

Tell me not, in manner winning,
This hot weather makes you sick!—
Don't forget how you were pining
For this very same! Why kick?
What though days are somewhat tor-

And temperature appalls
'N' perspiration down your forehead
Rushes like Niagara Falls
Let us, then, forego the holler,
What avails it to be sad?
Lay aside your linen collar,
Don your sport shirt and be glad!

Bill says that sometimes he is inclined to think that the prohibition agents are trying to take the "Hic" out of Chicago.

REAL SALESMANSHIP

"I bought the loveliest dresser to-day with a cedar bottom in the lower drawer."

"How much did it cost," ask the practical husband.

"Good gracious! I never even thought to ask, I was so taken up with it," answered friend wife.

TUT-TUT

Miss Ethel Tutt and Elmer Tutt her second cousin, were married at Boston recently.

A GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL
Braymen (Mo.) Bee.

Prof. J. D. Wheeler gave an entertainment on his violin last week which was very fine. He imitated the old cane mill, the mule, the sow and the pigs, the "Arkansas Traveler" the old spinning wheel and various other things.

The Rev. Lawrence Wheeler preached a couple of good sermons, and then C. W. Lane passed around the hat. The collection was 65 cents for the young preacher, who thanked the audience for their good behavior and dismissed them to their homes.

Some day someone will write a movie in which the husband and wife love each other uninterrupted by a third party.

How Dates Grow.

The Arabs live almost entirely on this fruit when crossing the desert. The date is the fruit of the date-palm, which grows best in Persia, Palestine, Arabia, and the North of Africa. The stem reaches a height of 50 feet to 70 feet and throws on a magnificent crown of large leaves and a number of spadices. In the female plant these bear bunches of dates weighing from 20 to 25 pounds.

ALL HAVE SOME PROTECTION

Mother Nature Abandons None of Her Progeny, in a Helpless State, to Their Enemies.

Nature has provided for everything. down to frogs and little sticklebacks. All the little animals that seem so helpless have their own ways of protecting themselves, says London Answers.

If he suspects that some larger and stronger animal is out to eat him, the toad is able to swell himself out until he looks very ferocious and is far too large to be swallowed.

The frog has longer legs than the toad and therefore can jump better. His eyes are at the top of his head, to enable him to see all round, for having no neck, he cannot turn his head. He can change the color of his coat if it should prove necessary. It takes him about a quarter of an hour to do this thoroughly and after it is accomplished it is extremely difficult to distinguish him from his surroundings.

People sometimes try to catch the lizard, but meet with no success, for the only part of its body one can get at is its tail, and it can drop this at a moment's notice. The little stickleback, beloved of all small boys, has little spiky spines sticking out to protect it from the other inhabitants of ponds and streams. But these little spines are of no avail when the stickleback ends its days in the jam jar of some little fisherman.

"Sentence Hymn."
The term "sentence hymn" came from the practice of earlier days, when hymn books were scarce. In order that all the congregation might be able to join in the singing the pastor would read aloud the first two lines, which were then sung and the reading and singing would continue alternately to the end of the hymn. This practice is still continued in some of the rural churches of the South.

Ingalls on Death and Life.
Every man is the center of a circle whose fatal circumference he cannot pass. Within its narrow confines he is potential, beyond it he perishes; and if immortality is a splendid but delusive dream, if the incompleteness of every career, even the longest and most fortunate, be not supplemented and perfected after its termination here, then he who dreads to die should fear to live, for life is a tragedy more desolate and inexplicable than death.—John James Ingalls.

For Precious Clippings.
Every woman interested in her home sooner or later forms the habit of clipping recipes, hints and articles of a varied nature which she intends some time to enter in a scrapbook. Too often they are misplaced before that time arrives. A letter file, a book-like box with index, is excellent either for permanent or temporary filing. If tied alphabetically when clipped the articles are easily found when wanted.

We are offering any Ladies' Suit or Dress in our house Saturday and Monday for $19.98. Some of these garments cost us twice and three times this amount, but this is your gain and our loss.

We would have you to remember that when you see our special announcements it means something to you if you will only take advantage of these offerings. They are different from the big sales. Sales are expensive in many ways, we have tried them. Someone has got to pay the freight so to speak. They are really more expensive than a few charge accounts that some people make so much fuss about.

Finger Nail's History.
The rapidity of the growth of the nails is indicative of the health. The growth of the nails on the right hand is in most people more rapid than of those on the left hand. Another curious point is, that the rate of growth of the nail depends directly on the length of the finger. Thus the nails on the two middle fingers of men grow more rapidly than those on the first and third fingers, respectively, and these in turn are more speedy in their growth than those on the little fingers.

Could Rely on Him.
It was down in Texas—in those other days. A man was introducing his brother to the group of gentlemen in the saloon. He said, "This is my brother—my brother. An' he's not only my brother, ye understand, but he's my personal friend."—Fore-sight.

Leave Prayer Rugs.
It is the life desire of every Mohammedan to journey to the holy city of Mecca, and in preparation for this pilgrimage he spends many years unlike his own praying carpet. This carpet he eventually leaves behind in Mecca, which now contains millions of carpets left by pilgrims.

THERE is a big difference between Calumet
and all other Baking Powders.

First—you see it in the cost.
Calumet is sold at a moderate price.

Then—you observe it in use.
Calumet has more than the usual leavening strength, therefore less is required.

Next—you notice it in raising quality—in the evenness—
lightness and texture of your bak-ings. They look better—finer grained.

"S-o-m-e Biscuit!"

"BEST BY TEST"

CALUMET

BAKING POWDER

Finally—what a difference in the taste. There is a deliciousness, a goodness that can be had in no other manner. Biscuits, pies, cakes, muffins, doughnuts—never were so tasty—so
all satisfying.

And then there is the satisfaction of knowing that Calumet is made in the World's largest, best equipped and cleanest Baking Powder Factories.

Good wholesome bakings can be made
only of good materials, no other way, so use only good baking powder and good plain flour (not self-rising flour).

Calumet Biscuit

Recipe
4 cups of sifted pastry flour, 4 level
teaspoons Calumet
Baking Powder, 1
level teaspoon of salt, 2 rounding
tablespoons of butter or lard, ½ cup
of milk, ¼ cup of water. Then mix in the regular way.

MISSSES ELESSE PHINIZY AND CAROLYN CARTWRIGHT HONORED

The second of a series of pre-nuptial affairs planned for Misses Elese Phinzy, and Carolyn Cartwright brides-elect of this month, was tendered in the nature of a rook shower
yesterday afternoon, when Mrs.
Frank Brown and Miss Ruth Banks were joint hostesses in compliment to them at the home of Mrs. Brown on Oak street. For this occasion the attractive Brown home was most artistically decorated in a profusion of dainty vari-colored sweet peas, the color scheme, pink and white predominating throughout the reception suite. In the dining room pink gladiolus were used. A handsome silver tulle tied basket of this lovely graceful flower, centered the prettily appointed table. The guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Paul Brown who introduced them to the receiving line, which was composed of Mrs.
Frank Brown, Misses Carolyn Cartwright Elese Phinzy, and Ruth Bank.
Fourteen tables of participants played rook, which resulted in Miss Marjorie Rainey capturing first prize, Mrs. G.
Rogers received second. The consolation fell to, Miss Anna Mae Gardner.

The attractive feature of the afternoon was the presentation of the gifts to the honorees. Each bride-elect was given a list of cities to visit abroad; the guests representing the capitals of each country. As the honorees visited the various places they found attractive ribbon tied to surprise packages, containing dainty remembrances from their many friends present. Following the game and shower the hostesses presented Miss Cartwright and Miss Phinzy a dear little cupid doll dressed in bridal attire,
as souvenirs of this enjoyable occasion. Miss Cartwright was dainty in a tulle-trousseau frock of green orga-ndie with large black picture hat. Her flowers were pink sweet peas. Miss Phinzy, was most attractive in crisp yellow organdie, with pretty lace and straw hat, she wore a corsage of lavender sweet peas. Those included in this hospitality in addition to hostesses
and honorees were:

Mrs. D. W. Speake was hostess to the Missionary Society of Central M.
E. Church, Monday afternoon May 10th at 3 p. m. It being a social session, Mrs. C. W. Black, and the young adies of the Missionary Society rendered a most pleasing program, which was much enjoyed. Entertainments consisted of both vocal and instrumental music, and readings. The young people to whom we were enlightened were: Misses Roxie, Cleo and Zana Lovin, Jessie Mae Miller, and Mrs. Zeller Robertson. Ice cream and cake was served which proved delightful and refreshing on the sultry afternoon. Mesdames R. Warren, C. W. Black and Miss Any Lee Speake assisted in serving. A most delightful afternoon was spent. Mrs.
J. J. Rose, Publicity Superintendent.

Attractive Mouth.
Of course, ideals and ideas about beauty, differ greatly, but there can be very little difference of opinion about the attributes of an attractive mouth. In the first place, it must be red, but not too red, and the teeth
must be or seem to be perfect.

Brings Character Development.
To be thrown on one's own resources is to be cast on the very lap of fortune, for our faculties undergo a development and display an energy of which they are previously unsuscep-tible.—Franklin.

Fourteenth-Century Playing Cards.
The playing cards of the Fourteenth century differ materially from the pack in use today. The Venetian pack, for example, consisted of 78
cards—22 of them marked with emblems of various kinds and 56 with numerals, divided in four suits of 14
cards each.

No Advocate but itself.
Do not waste a minute, nor a second, in trying to demonstrate to others the merit of your own performance. If your work does not vindicate itself, you cannot vindicate it, but you can labor steadily on to the something which needs no advocate
but itself.—Thomas Wentworth Hig-ginson, "A Letter to a Young Contributor."

Mistletoe Differs.
The American mistletoe differs from the English mistletoe in the independence of the sexes. In the European the male and female flowers grow upon the same plant, hence berries may be found on every plant. In America each sex labors for itself, and grows on separate plants; hence there are many plants barren so far as berries are concerned.

Liquid to Replace Solid Coal.
A noted engineer states that coal,
under 200 atmospheres pressure, heated to between 540 and 720 degrees Fahrenheit, and mixed with hydrogen gas, becomes liquid. As the energy is greatly increased he predicts that in the near future it will replace the solid coal.

BISCUITS baked with Valier's
Dainty Flour certainly taste good to youngsters after a long morning at school. The concentration of "rithmatic" and "e'ography" keeps them from realizing how hungry they really are 'till long about recess time. Then there's no denying that appetite.
When twelve o'clock comes they can hardly wait to get home.

Give them all they want. Things baked with Valier's Dainty Flour are as wholesome as they are delicious, for Dainty Flour is nothing but the white centers of the very finest soft winter wheat. It's like cream skimmed from rich, Jersey milk—all quality.

Dainty is economical, too. It costs more than ordinary flour but it's absolutely dependable. You won't waste Dainty in needless, costly failures.
In addition, Dainty requires less shortening. Try a sack.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

People have a lot of different reasons for liking the movies. Some are quite unexpected ones. But after all, one great outstanding thing to most of us, I fancy, is the presentation of actual environment and scenic reality which the speaking stage cannot touch. Real trees blowing in the wind, and the real waterfalls and shipwrecks and mountain peaks, you know, and apple blossoms! I was thinking about that the other night at "Snowblind." I actually felt the cold from the blizzard and the snow-covered hills and valley. What would have been the effect of the production as a "regular" play rather than one in the films? It's a good story; more than that, it's an unusual story, and the characters are much more than just interesting and well done. It would have been impressive in any form. But I developed a really grateful, humble sort of appreciation for the motion pictures as I sat there and realized that I was seeing the drama as it might actually have been lived right there in its own glittering, snow-ruled country; and that we never could do that if it were not for the pictures.

This city changes so rapidly that it is difficult to keep ordinary engagements in it. I asked an out-of-town friend to have lunch with me the other day—some one I wanted to be particularly nice to. And I gave careful directions to meet me at a little restaurant on Fulton street, for which I always had a particular affection and knew she would like. I had been there just the week before and the food was delicious. For the first time in months I was late to an appointment, and I rushed as fast as I could to discover my poor bewildered guest standing helpless in the middle of the sidewalk looking in all directions, while nothing but one little corner of a wall remained of my restaurant, and scaffolds already hung over the walk in preparation for a new and bigger structure there.

NEW YORK, June 3.—One is willing to adjust oneself to almost any condition that makes it possible to keep a carpenter at work at times when he is really needed. But it is difficult sometimes to devote one's afternoon to music! A woman who was having a partition removed from her home in Park avenue had to meet this problem the other day. An Italian carpenter was at work in her music room and the environment appealed to him. "Lady," he requested, "please play while I work." She complied with his petition and after her performance, his talk drifted to music and the opera. "Lady," he said, brightly, "next week I come and bring my violin."

Among the "vehicles" confiscated yesterday by the police as liquor carriers were one baby carriage, one brief case, one stove, one pushcart, three boilers, eleven suitcases, two bicycles, one motorboat, one cash register and a bathtub.

LIVER LAZINESS means a dull brain and a poisoned body. Adjusting removes the cause. Start today. Consultation is without charge.
